

GALVANISING YOUR BUSINESS AGAINST SUPPLY CHAIN DISRUPTION AND CUSTOMER INSOLVENCY RISK

PETER MANLEY
SENIOR ASSOCIATE
DLA PIPER

SOLUTIONS WITHIN THE LEGAL AND OPERATIONAL TOOLKIT FOR BUSINESSES IN RETAIL (AND THE SUPPLY-CHAIN) TO ENHANCE RESILIENCE

The onset of COVID-19 has precipitated and accelerated substantial change for retailers; adding to particular headwinds already facing the sector in the UK. Restrictions on and changes to consumer preferences resulting from the pandemic have intensified the challenges facing many brick-and-mortar retailers and businesses operating in the supply chain. The Government mandated lockdown signalled immediate cash flow impacts for non-essential retailers forced to shut their stores and re-position for remote outlet channels which, in turn, has a 'knock-on' effect for businesses in the supply chain.

In addition, new UK legislation (the Corporate Insolvency and Governance Act 2020) brought into force in June renders ineffective the operation of a range of contractual clauses (in both new and existing supply contracts) which a supplier would commonly expect to rely on in a customer insolvency/restructuring scenario (see further details below).

There is potential for further financial distress in the coming period as government imposed restrictions seek to balance control of the virus with economic impact, temporary government support measures and tax deferral arrangements are withdrawn, and currently deferred liabilities become payable. Alongside, there is a level of uncertainty as to how consumer confidence and disposable income levels will hold up as we enter Q4 and move into 2021.

Nonetheless, the industry has and continues to adapt quickly to a substantial shift in retail trends. Indeed, there are significant opportunities for well positioned businesses to enhance value by implementing effective protections against disruption from supply chain shock and the potential to seize strategic opportunities to enhance their offerings and implement operational efficiency by being alert to competitors and supply chain businesses facing insolvency.

ENHANCING RESILIENCE

Businesses in the sector stand to protect substantial value by: (i) taking early action to assess critically their potential exposure to supplier and customer insolvencies; (ii) reviewing whether legal protections in supply contracts may be ineffective in light of new legislation; and (iii) implementing enhanced legal and operational protections. Specific legal and operational planning and on-going monitoring processes, tailored to the jurisdictions in which the operations/exposure may arise, will significantly mitigate the risk and effect of customer or key supplier insolvency, increase optionality from an early stage and thereby enable resulting business costs to be minimised.

CHLOE BALL
ASSOCIATE
DLA PIPER

WARNING SIGNS OF SUPPLIER/CUSTOMER FINANCIAL DISTRESS

Warning signs

- Delayed payment/stretching of supplier credit.
- Re-negotiated payment terms sought/requests for deposits and upfront payments.
- Store/office premises closures.
- Deteriorating service levels.
- Spurious/unjustifiable claims.
- CCJs, late accounts filing, withdrawal of credit insurance, pending winding up proceedings.
- Auditor's report subject to qualifications.
- New/additional security being granted to an alternative funding provider.
- Market rumour/industry specific challenge/external shock.
- Over-leveraged business.
- Management exits/changes.

CORPORATE INSOLVENCY AND GOVERNANCE ACT 2020

The Corporate Insolvency and Governance Act 2020 came into law in June and impacts a number of typical rights and protections of suppliers. The legislation:

- precludes the operation of a range of supplier contractual rights where they arise by reference to a customer entering an applicable insolvency process (e.g. a right to terminate supply (amongst others)); and
- applies to supply contracts irrespective of when they were entered into (i.e. it applies retrospectively to existing contracts) and the changes are relevant to all businesses (including those of financial good standing) having UK supply operations to customers.

OPTIONS TO PROTECT YOUR GOODS/ EXPOSURE

Customer Risk

- Review supply terms in light of new UK legislation.
- Retain title to goods supplied until payment received.
- Periodic on-going monitoring:
 - customer accounts filed on time?
 - CCJs/winding up proceedings commenced?
 - audit of stock segregation conditions at customer premises for goods supplied which are not yet paid.
 - credit insurance available?
- Review of financial position and payment terms.
- Monitor/review level of credit exposure.

Supplier Risk

- Is the supplier key to your supply/ production operations?
- If the supplier ceased trading, what alternatives would be available, at what cost and within what time frame?
- Monitor potential knock on impact on your ability to deliver on onward supply contracts.
- Would supplier distress provide an opportunity to acquire assets/bring part of production required for your business in-house?

REACTING TO SUPPLIER/CUSTOMER DISTRESS: EARLY ACTION TO RECOVER ASSETS/OBTAIN PAYMENT

Where concern is identified with regard to customer or supplier financial distress, early action is key to avoiding potentially large exposure as an unsecured creditor upon an insolvency.

- At an early stage key steps can be taken, including:
 - contingency plan continued alternate supply of key goods and services;
 - audit and inventory of stock held by customer where title has been retained;
 - recovery action in respect of stock/suspension of credit terms absent payment of debts being made;
 - written reminders of directors' duties and/ or threat of early enforcement action/ commencement of insolvency proceedings;
 - procuring payment on account/guarantee from third party for continued supply;
 - taking security/guarantees to elevate and enhance creditor rights;
 - securing provision of pertinent financial information; and
 - early engagement with a key supplier in financial distress.

Early monitoring of warning signs and maintaining connection with market intelligence to identify potential insolvency of businesses in the industry and/or supply chain can present significant opportunity for dynamic action to acquire strategic operations, whilst protecting continuity of supply arising from financial distress.

PETER MANLEY

// +44 207 796 6056

// +44 788 526 2221

// peter.manley@dlapiper.com

CHLOE BALL

// +44 207 153 7574

// +44 792 757 1517

// chloe.ball@dlapiper.com

